

Are you French-speaking parents? Would you like your children to continue practising French while enrolled in a British school? Then wait no more and join the FLAM network!

What is FLAM?

The Français LAngue Maternelle network brings together associations located outside of France whose mission is to reinforce the language skills and cultural knowledge of children from French and French-speaking families, aged between 3 and 18 and who do not attend school in French, through extra-curricular activities.

The FLAM associations, created by groups of locally based French-speaking parents, are supported by the French Ministry for Europe and Foreign Affairs through the AEFÉ (the Agency for French Education Abroad).

What do the FLAM associations offer?

The FLAM associations, also known as Petites Écoles in the UK, offer French-speaking families courses and holiday camps in French, enabling their children to develop, maintain or recover their fluency in French, in a setting that is both educational and fun, on evenings or weekends.

The Parapluie FLAM in the United Kingdom

In the UK, the FLAM network is supported by Parapluie FLAM, a non-profit association that federates more than 60 Petites Écoles across the country.

The Parapluie FLAM provides educational, administrative and legal support to help set up associations, allowing the pooling of resources and the sharing of best practices between network members.

How can I find a Petite École near me?

To find a Petite École in the United-Kingdom, visit Parapluie FLAM's website, www.parapluieflam.org, and view "la carte des Petites Écoles".

How can I set up a Petite École?

If you are unable to find a Petite École in your area and you would like to create your own association, you may contact Parapluie FLAM for advice at infos@parapluieflam.org.

Where can I find resources in French for my children?

The Institut français' free digital multimedia library that gives you access to books, magazines, podcasts, videos, and so much more!

TV5Monde's free Francophone television channel for young people, available online.

The free Francophone video-on-demand platform for the young and old alike, available online and via the app.

The free general-interest Francophone television channel, accessible online and via the app. Resources for teaching and learning French are available on the TV5Monde website.

A platform of innovative resources for education.

A French public digital educational platform that enables pupils, from nursery school to high school, to consolidate the concepts covered in the school curriculum.