Launched by the Institut français in 2016, the Night of Ideas is a global project staged simultaneously in Paris, London and worldwide.

The Institut français du Royaume-Uni, the Scientific Department and the Cultural Department of the French Embassy have created a thought-provoking programme of free debates exploring the latest ideas behind issues central to our times.

Inspired by the Power to the Imagination slogan of the Paris May 1968 protests, the Night of Ideas invites audiences to an open debate on the new futures unfolding in the cultural, artistic and scientific fields, as well as in our political and philosophical frames of discussion.

Crossing French, British and European perspectives, leading experts, artists and researchers will explore the major aspirations of our times, from the prestigious to the unexpected.

Opening

17:00-17:15 – Institut français

Address by Jean-Pierre Jouyet, French Ambassador to the United Kingdom

BRAVE NEW WORLDS

Sharing Space

17:15-18:45 – Institut français – Talk

Discover the brave new worlds of outer space with astronauts Timothy Peake and Thomas Pesquet and British space scientist and presenter of BBC's The Sky at Night, Dr Maggie Aderin-Pocock. We will examine the new challenges for space exploration and assess the impact of space discoveries. Why, though, do we need to project ourselves into the universe in the first place? Jean-Yves Le Gall (Centre National d'Etudes Spatiales) and Graham Turnock (UK Space Agency) will also join the debate.

Speakers

- Timothy Peake, Astronaut
- Thomas Pesquet, Astronaut
- Jean-Yves Le Gall, President of the Centre National d'Etudes Spatiales (CNES)
- Graham Turnock, Chief executive of the UK Space Agency

Chair

- Maggie Aderin-Pocock, British space Scientist and Presenter of the BBC programme The Sky at Night

M.C

- Marc Bena, PwC

BRAVE NEW WORLDS

Turing's Machine

18:00-19:00 – Imperial College London – Demonstration

We travel back to the genesis of the computer revolution with Marc Raynaud, Professor of Mathematics and inventor, who will demonstrate a prototype of a Turing Machine that he conceived and implemented using the technology available when the momentous idea and the related conceptual model were put forward by Alan Turing in the mid-1930s.

Speaker

- Marc Raynaud, Mathematician

BRAVE NEW WORLDS

AI Tech Showcase

18:00-19:00 – Imperial College London – Pop-up Exhibition

Imperial College AI Network and the French Tech London present a set of pioneering AI tech, created by leading inventors, artists and researchers. Exploring the practical, theoretical or poetical uses of AI, this interactive showcase includes a drawing robot, dancing drones, and an AI app for visually impaired people, amongst other innovations.

Exhibitors

- Patrick Tresset, Artist and Scientist - with RNP-II, his drawing robot.
- Pierre-Frédéric Jaffre, Chief of Staff, Data and AI, at Microsoft
- Jean-Dominique Lauwereins, CEO at BeTomorrow and CTO at Dronisos

BRAVE NEW WORLDS

CreAltivity – Artificial Intelligence and Creativity

19:00-20:15 - Imperial College London – Debate

Artificial intelligence (AI) is rapidly defying the realms of possibility in fields ranging from brain science, engineering and medicine to art, music and design. We venture into these new territories with leading researchers including Simon Colton, François Pachet and Aldo Faisal. Can human brain capacity be translated into technology? Will artificial intelligence be capable of creativity and imagination? How creative can we be in a world of AI?

Speakers

- Simon Colton, Professor in Digital Games Technologies (Falmouth) and Computational Creativity (Goldsmiths)
- Dr Aldo Faisal, Director of the Brain & Behaviour Analytics Lab, Imperial College London
- François Pachet, Director of Spotify Creator Technology Research Lab

Chair

- Ann O'Dea, CEO and co-founder of Silicon Republic
- M.C.
- Rob McCargow, AI Programme Leader, PwC

NEW FUTURES

Can Art Change the World?

19:00-20:15 – V&A – Debate

Transforming or distorting reality, art has always changed our perception of the world. Constantly pushing boundaries further and exploring new forms of expression, contemporary art continues this to challenge our minds and offer us new ways of seeing.

In this debate, leading figures of the art world discuss the power of art in politics and society, highlighting the artist's responsibility towards society, and the ability of art to make a difference, giving young people the opportunity to build an identity and find a place into our world.

Speakers

- Tristram Hunt, Director of the V&A
- Magdalen Fisher, Executive Director, Sadler's Wells
- Catherine Petitgas, Chair of the International Council at Tate
- Rod Skipp, Artistic Director of In Harmony Liverpool, Royal Liverpool Philharmonic

Chair

- Rachel Cooke, Journalist, The Observer

BACK TO THE FUTURE

Imagining Revolutions

19:00-20:45 – Institut français – Debate

2018, the 50th anniversary of the Paris protests of May 1968, is the occasion to compare the history of those revolutionary moments that appear essential to collective understandings in Europe and beyond. How do we come to create our specific myths of revolution – what is the work being done by these myths in our collective memory – and what uses do we make today of the idea of revolution? In partnership with King's College London, with a guest appearance by Ken Loach.

Talk with

- Ken Loach, Film Director
- Agnès Poirier, Journalist, Writer and Broadcaster

Speakers

- Anna Bernard, Head of Comparative Literature and Senior Lecturer in English and Comparative Literature at King's College London
- Rosa Mucignat, Senior Lecturer in Comparative Literature at King's College London
- Karolina Jakaitė, Lecturer in History of Design and Design Management at the Vilnius Academy of Arts

- Sanja Perovic, Senior Lecturer in French and Co-Director of the Centre for Enlightenment Studies at King's College London
- Benedict Schofield, Head of Department of German at King's College London

Chair

- Ziad Elmarsafy, Professor of Comparative Literature at King's College London

IMAGINATION AND CREATION

Contemporary Music as a Creative Medium

20:30-21:20 – Institut français – Talk and Music

Throughout the centuries, musicians have never ceased to invent, discover, explore new ways to express themselves. Particularly in Western music, evolutions have been drastic and rapid, moving towards greater complexity, new timbres and highly sophisticated forms. At the same time, a growing dichotomy arose between so-called serious music and the entertainment industry.

Where are we now? How does musical creativity express itself in our global world of digital exchanges and fast-moving trends and fashions? How different is the current creative process from preceding times? How does musical creativity connect with other arts and with science? What kind of dialogue is there among those fields?

Speakers

- Karol Beffa, Composer and Pianist
- Jonathan Cross, Professor of Musicology at the University of Oxford

Chair

- Eric de Visscher, Music & Art Consultant and Researcher, Visiting Professor at the V&A

WOMEN SHAPING THE WORLD

A 100 Years of Women's Rights

21:15-22:30 – Institut français - Debates

As we enter the centenary year of women's suffrage in the UK, where do we stand with women's rights and gender equality today?

Women's rights have undeniably progressed in Western countries, as we discuss and celebrate in part one of this debate. There are also ordinary and extraordinary role models shaping the world through their achievements, as we see in part two.

Yet as the explosion of sexual harassment scandals also demonstrates, our societies are still far too male-dominated and still inflict everyday violence on women. Will this awareness encourage men to embrace feminism? (How) can men be feminists? Are we in the middle of a gender crisis? In part three we adopt a Franco-British and European perspective to debate these questions of crucial relevance for the next 100 years of women's rights.

Speakers

• Myriam Boussahba-Bravard, Professor of History at the Université Paris Diderot

• Ros Cranston, Film and Archives Curator at the British Film Institute

• Dame Athene Donald, Professor of Experimental Physics at the University of Cambridge

• Frédérique Bedos, Film Producer, Film Director Founder of the NGO of Information « Le Projet Imagine »

• Marian Lacombe, Film Director

• Tracy Edwards MBE, Sailor and Author

• Posy Simmonds, newspaper Cartoonist, Writer and Illustrator of children's books

Power and Politics: The Hottest Genre in TV Drama

22:45-23:45 – Institut français – Debate

Chaired by Walter Iuzzolino, the curator behind global drama channel, Walter Presents, Power and Politics: The Hottest Genre in TV Drama will lift the lid on some of the most popular recent hit thrillers and royal dramas. Why have they struck such a chord with international audiences, and what successful formulae do they share? Meet the producers, writers and actors behind blockbuster hits like Spin, The Crown, Victoria, and The Bureau, and explore the line where fiction and reality meet. Who is manipulating whom, and to what extent is fiction shaping real life politics and public opinion? Mathieu Sapin, author of comic books on politics will also join the debate.

Speakers

- Alex Berger, Producer of The Bureau
- Gregory Fitoussi, Actor in Spin series
- Daisy Goodwin, Creator and Writer of Victoria
- Andy Harries, Executive producer of The Crown (season 2)

THE LITTLE NIGHT

In the run-up of the Night of Ideas and opening the Night, the Little Night offers the opportunity to the youngest to sharpen their imagination, widen their creativity and express themselves through a series of interactive and multimedia events.

Let's Imagine Together

16.00-17.30 – Bibliothèque Quentin Blake

Animated from Paris by children's author Anaïs Vaugelade through live video, and based on the game Once Upon a Time (Il était une fois), this collective writing workshop will involve kids from London, Paris, Dublin, Dakar and Marrakech. They will engage on short debates and share their views on various topics in a fun and educative way.

Ages: 6-12 years - Free

From Dreams to Revolutions

Several British and French schools in the UK have invited their pupils to reflect on the main topics of the Night.

Primary schools share their pupils' drawings, collages and other visual productions on the themes of night, dream, and imagination, and secondary school students participate in the debate by working on the themes of space, women in the world, and revolutions, sending special ambassadors to the Night's panels, and producing videos on these themes.

Drawings and videos can be seen on: www.nightofideas.co.uk/thelittlenight
